Environment Canada Weather Forecast

A ridge of high pressure will keep the region mainly sunny today with increasing cloud tonight as a frontal system moves towards the coast. The cold front will spread snow to the alpine beginning Friday afternoon. A moist onshore flow will spread flurries on Saturday and a more significant snowfall will accompany a stronger frontal system on Sunday. Another system with more snow is expected Monday.

Callaghan Country Nordic Trails

Please remember that Callaghan Country is a mountainous environment. Nordic trails in our area may be more difficult than those you might find elsewhere. You will find hills on all of our trails...some rather steep. Please observe the trail ratings and feel free to ask us for more detail before you head out!
